Introduction story

Dear Diary,

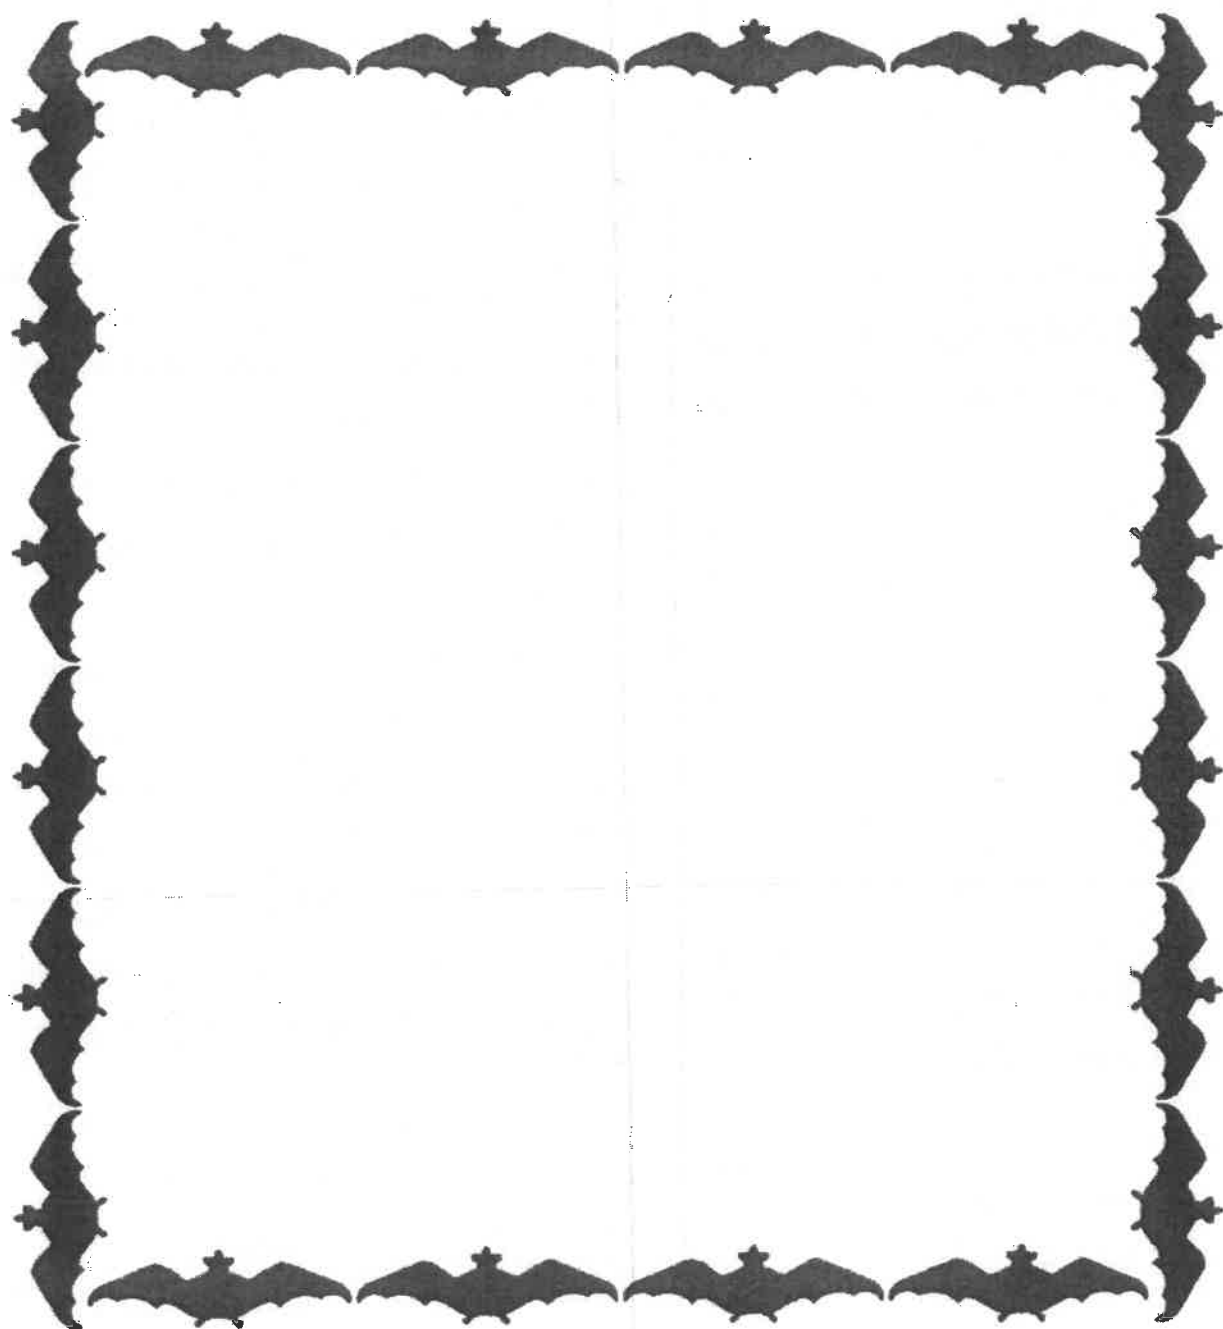

We were going for a lovely weekend away with all of the families from the village to Mr Darkwood's new mansion, which he called Darkwood Manor. It was incredibly fancy – very large with wonderful green lawns and trees, I was so excited as I pulled up the drive and parked up. It was most odd, however. As soon as I turned off the engine, the clouds covered the sun. It became very dark, I could barely see walking up the path and even struggled to find the knocker on the front door. It started to rain, hard, bullets of water pelting my skin. I banged the knocker loudly and it echoed throughout the estate. Crows flew from the tree past me, sending shivers down my spine and making me feel most uncomfortable. Nobody answered the door. I thought this was peculiar as they knew we were coming, therefore I pounded the knocker again. I stood in silence, waiting for a response that never came. I was standing on the porch, my clothes soaked through from the rain and my suitcase sodden with water. As a thunder bolt came crashing above my head, I decided to let myself in.

How I wish I had gone back to the car and driven home. I should never have walked in, what I saw will stay with me forever – a haunting image that scared me to my very soul. I struggled to force open the creaking, heavy doors and froze in horror. There, I saw...

What are my rights as a human being?

What rights do you have as a child, as a member of the school, in the home, in the community, in the world?

Transatlantic Slave Trade

300 years ago Britain was involved in (something called) the British transatlantic slave trade. During this time millions of African people were kidnapped and stolen from Africa and taken across the Atlantic Ocean to the Americas and the Caribbean Islands. They became slaves. They were sold and sent to work on their new owners' plantations growing sugar cane to sell to people back in Britain. They were not paid for their work and were treated cruelly by their owners. Some slaves fought for their freedom, some escaped and came to England, most slaves died on the ships travelling across the Atlantic Ocean and on the plantations.

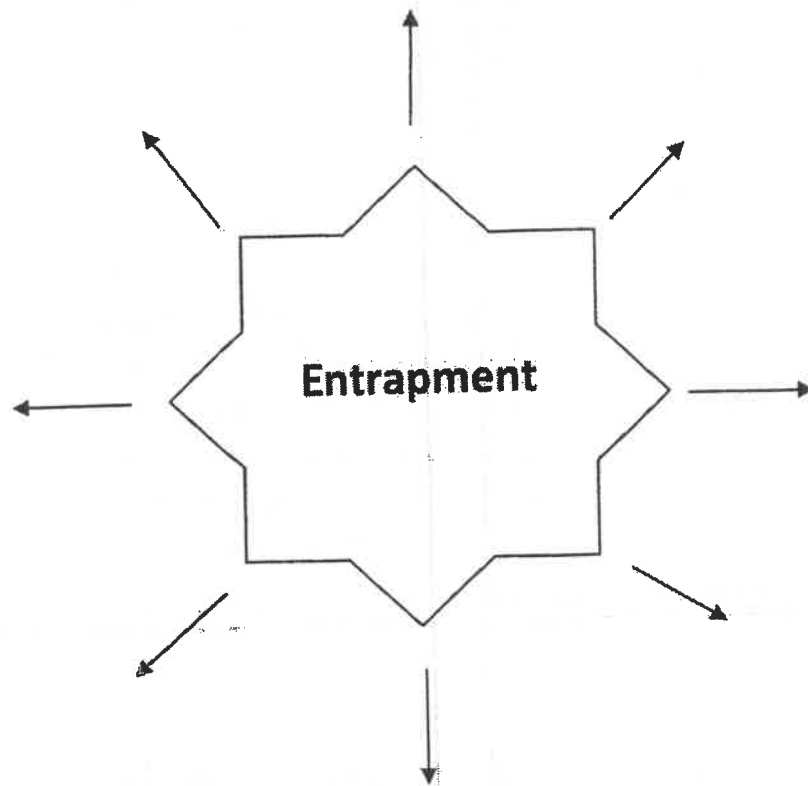

What is thought tracking?

Thought-tracking helps inform an audience about a character. You see it in action when:

- a character speaks out loud about his/her inner thoughts at a particular moment in the drama
- a character speaks out loud about his/her inner thoughts during a freeze frame/still-image

Task: Brainstorm drama ideas for entrapment – find a story of somebody who has experienced being trapped.

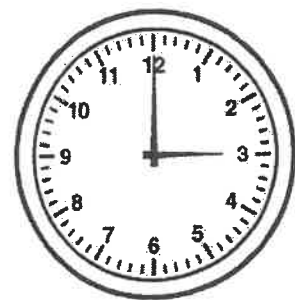

What is cross cutting?

Cross-cutting is what you do after you've created a series of scenes or sequences, and you re-order them to create a drama that goes forwards and backwards in time.

Task: To create a performance based on entrapment

You must include:

Cross cutting (Start with the ending of the story and flashing back in time)

Thought Tracking (a moment in the performance where characters reveal thoughts to the audience)

As a starting point, jot down a list of storyline ideas you could use.

Greek Myths

What's in Pandora's Box?

Zeus, the father of the gods, was angry that humans had been given the gift of fire by Prometheus, making them far more powerful than he wished. To take the humans down a peg or two he sent his daughter, Pandora, to earth to cause trouble.

There she married Epimetheus, half-brother of Prometheus. Epimetheus was given a box by Zeus. Unknown to Pandora, it contained all the diseases which could bring suffering to humans. Pandora's curiosity overcame her desire to obey her husband and to keep the box locked. She opened it and out flew all the diseases and sorrows which trouble humans. However, at the bottom of the box was Hope, who would help humans to overcome their suffering.

Pandora has just opened the box.

Task: Complete the poem below to reveal what you imagine to have emerged.

The demon moved like.....

Its eyes looked like.....

It was the colour of.....

I ran away because.....

I wish I'd never opened the box!

Task: Design a piece of art work below for display that shows what you imagine would have come out of Pandora's Box. Be creative!

What is Hot –seating?

Hot-seating is a way of developing (or deepening) character. If you are in the hot-seat you answer questions from others in the group while you are 'in role'.

Task: Write down a list of questions that you would ask Pandora.

What is a split scene?

This is where two scenes go on at the same time on stage, one stage left and one stage right. The scene stage left will begin, for example and the actors in the scene stage right will be frozen. The actor's stage left will then freeze and the actor's stage right will resume the action and then freeze at the end. This may go backwards and forwards several times.

Threadbare juggler=you are poor with a rubbish job

Mad-headed ape= this explains itself!

False caterpillar=you are so two faced that you have many feet as well as faces

I bite my thumb at you= I stick my middle finger up at you!

You green-sickness carrion=you make me sick

You baggage=you are not wanted

May your pernicious soul rot half a grain a day=I hope your soul rots slowly instead of going to heaven

Thou impertinent guts-gripping tyrant=you make my stomach hurt because you're so awful!

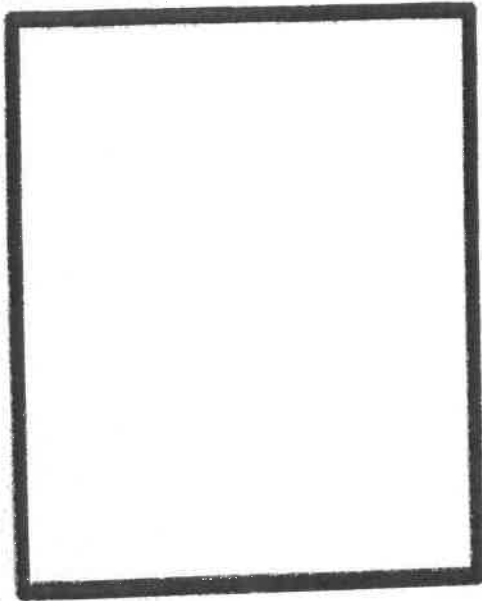

Your horrid image doth unfix my hair= you're so ugly; you make my hair stand on its end!

A prologue is text that sets the scene. What do you think the following prologue tells us about the story of Romeo & Juliet? What do you think William Shakespeare is trying to tell us?

Romeo and Juliet Prologue

- 1 Two households, both alike in dignity,
- 2 In fair Verona, where we lay our scene,
- 3 From ancient grudge break to new mutiny,
- 4 Where civil blood makes civil hands unclean.
- 5 From forth the fatal loins of these two foes
- 6 A pair of star-cross'd lovers take their life;
- 7 Whose misadventured piteous overthrows
- 8 Do with their death bury their parents' strife.
- 9 The fearful passage of their death-mark'd love,
- 10 And the continuance of their parents' rage,
- 11 Which, but their children's end, nought could remove,
- 12 Is now the two hours' traffic of our stage;
- 13 The which if you with patient ears attend,
- 14 What here shall miss, our toil shall strive to mend.
