Weekly Newsletter

Week Beginning 11th May 2020

Forthcoming Dates for your Diary

We have no further information about dates for a return to school but we await the Prime Minister's address on Sunday evening for further detail.

Please continue to follow the Government's daily briefings for the latest guidance.

The World Is A Stage!

National lockdown may have halted production for Eastenders and Coronation Street, but our Year 12 Drama students were not be deterred! Unable to work together in the theatre, the group have made the world their stage and devised and performed a piece completely on line! Congratulations to them for their hard work and ingenuity.

Stars of Lockdown!

We may not be having weekly assemblies but we're still keen to recognise our hard working community members. We've been sending some certificates home recognising outstanding effort and inviting the recipients to send us a photo if they want to. The first pictures are in! Congratulations to Mollie, Tamaya and Georgia, three of our stars of lockdown!

Reflections on Footsteps

During our Thursday reflection this week Mr Anderson took us on a walk through footsteps. You can make the reflection yourself by visiting the Chaplaincy Website and seeking out 'Thursday@7'. Thanks to everybody who sent their photos in!

'Saviours' for Saviours

Mrs Naylor has been busy crafting these woollen strips for nurses and care staff at the Royal Liverpool University Hospital. Although they might not look like PPE in the conventional sense, they certainly protect the ears of the NHS staff whose skin is being irritated by the straps on the masks they have to wear. The nurses are delighted and have christened them 'ear savours'!

Kooth Extend Age Range

Provision for the Kooth counselling and wellbeing platform has now been extended to serve a lower age range encompassing students in all year groups at St. Julie's. You can read more about the service, the change, and how to sign up and access the service in this document.

Letter to Sixth Form Applicants

There's a letter in the post to all of the applicants that have applied for a place at our Sixth Form. You can also read a copy here.

Internet Safety Activities from CEOP

The ThinkUKnow team at CEOP have released their latest activity packs for children and young people, offering short 15 minute activities for working through at home. There are two activities for secondary age students, but we have included links for all ages in case you have younger children in the household.

Personalised Advice to Bolster Knowledge

We've been signposting our students on an individual basis to some great activities to help bolster both their knowledge and their muscle when applying for courses. Many of these courses are offered by the National STEM Learning Centre and are of the highest quality. We've also signposted to some great information for students in every Year Group about the Allied Health Professions. Did you know that seven of the ten fastest growing job roles in the UK are in the Health and Social Care sector? Visit the story on our website to find links to resources, and check back next week for some resources around Humanities subjects.

What's Going on in School?

Members of the admin and finance team are continuing to conduct essential work on site whilst the deep clean of the building by the premises team continues. Staff from the catering team have also been in school working painstakingly on a clean of the food preparation and dining areas.

Careers Updates

We've got lots of updates this week largely offering general information about careers in specific sectors, such as theatre, travel, animal work, hair and beauty, engineering and much more. Read more on the updates page on our website!

Home Learning Timetable

As we continue to develop our remote and home-learning programmes, all students should have received a Home Learning Timetable (recommended guide only). Alongside this, project work will be set for each year group. Weekly tasks and daily communication with staff will continue as it did before the Easter break. You can access the relevant materials here, but parents and carers have been sent the home learning updates via email or link through SMS.

GCSE Pod Webinars for Parents and Carers

In order to help support the increased demand of their service, GCSE Pod are running some free webinars with different sessions aimed at teachers and parents. To take advantage, and learn how to use this service to its full potential with your daughter, follow the link here to see the programme and sign up to a session.
